King George V Dead - Edward VIII Ascends Throne

EMPIRE MOURNS LOSS OF BELOVED RULER

Sovereign Passes In 26th Year Of Reign — Commanded The Universal Affection Of His People — Funeral On Tuesday, Proclaimed Day Of Mourning — Bachelor Prince, Aged 41, Beloved By Empire, Becomes King Edward VIII.

King George V, the Empire's Sovereign for nearly 36 years, died peacefully in his 76th year of his beloved country seat at Sandringham House, Norfolk, England, on Monday evening at 11.55 (6.55 p.m., E.S.T.).

Preparations immediately were made to proclaim the Prince of Wales, his successor on the throne, as King Edward VIII.

Shortly before midnight his physicians observed that the King's gallant fight against bronchial catarrh and a weakening heart had ended and that the monarch was about to die. With and eyes, Lord Dawson of Penn, the King's physician since 1907, and his associates stood looking down on the tired, frail figure of the King.

Then they summoned to the bedside Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal Family from an adjoining room. Together they walked into the King's room and stood at his bedside. Death came peacefully a few moments later.

The Queen was crying softly. She had held the King's hand and listened to his final, labored breathing.

She broke down as his Majesty died but quickly rallied and kissed the monarch's bearded face, now still in death.

Lord Dawson of Penn, the King's physician since 1907, solemnly announced the King's death, addressing himself to the Prince of Wales.

"Your Majesty," he said, "your father is dead."

King Edward came to London from the death-bed of his father on Tuesday to assume his task as King of Great Britain and the Empire, and pledged he would "follow my father's footsteps" for the good of his subjects.

Amid historic ceremony, the new King swore the solemn oath of accession to become "Edward VIII, by the grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India."

Then he received the pledge of fealty from members of Parliament.

Before the Privy Council, recalling King George's unswerving devotion to

GRIMSBY TO PAY TRIBUTE TO KING

Memorial Service In St. Andrew's Church On Tuesday — To Observe Day Of Mourning Here.

Grimsby, with other municipalities throughout the Dominion, will observe the special day of mourning proclaimed for Tuesday next, January 22nd, when Canada will join with the rest of the British Commonwealth in paying tribute to the memory of the late King George V.

Arrangements are being made by the municipal authorities to observe the occasion with a special memorial service in St. Andrew's Church which will be attended by the council of the town and township, the war veterans and other organizations of the town as well as citizens generally. The service which will be held on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 22nd, will be in charge of Rev. J. A. Ballard, rector of St. Andrew's Church who will be assisted by the other clergy of the municipality.

In accordance with a proclamation of the Governor-General, places of business, the schools and other institutions will be closed for the day as a mark of respect to the late King and citizens are invited to attend the special service being arranged.

The sad tidings of the King's death met a gloom over the town and shortly after the news came over the radio the town bell was tolled 25 times while various functions which had been arranged were cancelled.

On Tuesday morning the members

GRIMSBY LOSES ANOTHER OUTSTANDING CITIZEN

Henry H. Farrell, well known Manufacturer and Business Man Succumbs To Pneumonia In His 70th Year — For Over Fifty Years Takes Active Part In Mercantile, Industrial, Agricultural And Sporting Life Of Peninsula.

(By J.O.L.) Citizens of this district were greatly shocked at noon on Wednesday, January 22nd, to hear of the death of his home on Main street west of Henry H. Farrell, senior member of the basket manufacturing firm of H. H. Farrell and Sons. Deceased who was in his 70th year had been ill for the past week but right up until Tuesday hopes had been held out by his family that he would survive the severe attack of lobular pneumonia with which he had been stricken as he was making a gallant fight and everything that medical skill could do was being rendered.

In the death of H. H. Farrell the town and district has lost one of its most prominent and colorful figures. For over half a century he had been an active participant in the mercantile, agricultural, industrial and sporting life of the peninsula, and right up until ten days ago was actively engaged in the operation of his business interests.

In the passing of Mr. Farrell the town has lost a good citizen; the district a solid, substantial, progressive business man and the sporting fraternity a true friend and solid supporter who always fostered the best in sport for the game's sake.

He was a member of Union Lodge No. 7 A.F. & A.M. Besides his widow he leaves to mourn his loss, one brother, ex-Mayor Charles T. Farrell; four daughters, Mrs. J. B. Mariatt, Hamilton; Mrs. Arthur M. Morrow, Windsor; Mrs. Lloyd Taylor, Toronto and Mrs. W. H. Ketterbome of Grimsby; six sons, Charles A., William J., Ray and Horace of Grimsby, Reginald of Jordan and Douglas of Saratoga.

The funeral will be held from his late residence 96 Main west on Friday afternoon, January 24th. Service at the home at 2.30 p.m. Interment in Queen's Lawn Cemetery.

He was born in Grimsby in the troublous Fenian Raid month of June, 1866, the eldest son of the late John C. Farrell and Jane Goss, pioneer residents of Grimsby Township. In 1886 he married Miss Ella Gilmour of Grimsby and the 50th anniversary of this happy event was

ACCIDENT HELD "UNAVOIDABLE"

Jury Absolves Leslie Blanchard, Driver of Merritt Car, of All Blame In Railway Accident.

The coroner's jury, under Dr. Eric Patterson, which met at Paris on Friday last to enquire into the death of the late James Merritt of Grimsby, absolved Leslie Blanchard, driver of the auto, of all blame in connection with the accident which it termed "unavoidable". The train crew likewise were absolved of guilt.

Death due to an accident caused by icy roads was the verdict of the jury. Mr. Merritt was killed when his auto was struck by a freight train at Armstrong's Crossing on January 16. Mr. Blanchard who returned home the end of the week is still confined to his bed, suffering from injuries received and shock.

The election of a warden to preside over the deliberations of the Lincoln County Council for the year will take place next week when the newly elected council holds its first session. Reeve Lawson of North Grimsby, will, it is expected, be the choice of the councillors for the position.

AWAY BACK WHEN

By FRANK FAIRBORN, JR.

Our great British Empire and the world at large suffered a great calamity at midnight on Monday when our dearly beloved King and Ruler George V., was taken Home to His Maker. The tolling of the Town bell by members of the Canadian Legion, one toll for every year of his reign, brought back vivid memories to me of the tolling of that bell 35 years ago today, January 22nd, 1891 and all the world was in mourning for that good and gracious personage the late Queen Victoria. It was just such a day as Monday, 1st and Thursday and the countryside buried deep in snow, when the news flashed over the wires at three o'clock that Victoria The Good had passed away. At that time the town bell could not be rung in the same manner as it is today and Smith

McNinch went to the bell cupola and the bell was tolled sixty-four times by striking it with a hammer. All stores and other business places and public buildings in the village were decorated in the royal mourning colors of deep purple and black until after the funeral of Her Majesty.

It must be remembered that it is natural for this district to be loyal supporters of our Royal family for was not this valley originally settled by United Empire Loyalists of the finest stock. Moreover Grimsby has during the past three-quarters of a century had more or less direct contact with the Royal family in different ways.

Seventy-five years ago the past summer, 1890, Grimsby was visited by the late King Edward VII, then the Prince of Wales, at the time of his first visit to Canada and the United States. Prince Edie tarried for some considerable time in "The Forty" and visited the Masonic hall and occupied the Worshipful Master's chair, said chair still being in use in the lodge room of No. 7 A.F. & A.M.

During the Fenian Raid of 1866 and again in 1870 Grimsby troop of Volunteers was on duty along the Frontier.

The morning congregation heard Rev. Donald McInnes of St. Enoch's Church, of Hamilton, who in his opening remarks, lauded the splendid work being done by St. John's Church in Grimsby and the program shown under the Ministry of Rev. LESSON NO. 87 GREEK MOTIF IN COMMERCIAL DESIGN

Fig. 289 is an excellent example of modern design founded on the classical Greek style. This design as a whole is beautifully portioned as can be judged even in the portion printed here. In the full-sized design, the plain and simple lettering at the top being well supported and constructed by the panel of rich ornament.

Study the fine symmetrical scroll sure to file away your clippings under the correct headings and folders, so that you may refer to them without any loss of time — when they are needed. You would be surprised to see how careful a professional artist is in selecting, and filing away specimens for reference. The larger and better your reference library is the more capable you will be in selecting the correct motif at the proper time, and without loss of time.

Learn to depend upon yourself and work, and in connection with this, special attention should be given to the beautiful little oak-leaf design in the center, noting how well it is balanced without symmetry.

The more one studies this Greek design the more strength and beauty we find in it. Blacks, dark greys, light greys and white spots placed in the practical manner of an experienced workman and creative designer. Have you studied the Greek border, note the interlocking features of the design. This border holds the design together, without being too strong or too black for the central spot, or too dark for the grey interlacing design.

Work of this nature will test the mettle of any artist. Week by week we shall endeavour to print various designs for your study.

Have you ———— decided to cut out, sort out, and file away samples of design for future reference? No your own clippings, as you will find that while some artists do not mind losing their clippings to follow artists, others refuse to do so. When ever you do get the loan of a clipping be sure that it is returned safely, and promptly, that is if you wish to have this courtesy allowed to you again.

For ex. No. 87. If you are not advanced enough as a designer to change the design in Fig. 289, make a copy of it, twice the size of the reproduction, enlarging the motifs in proportion.

Best Wages in State Paid by Newspapers

Austin, Tex. — Texas newspaper workers are the highest-paid industrial employees in the state, the University of Texas bureau of business research reports.

Average salaries for those employed in newspaper publishing was $39.73 a week. Among major industries petroleum refineries and railroads paid the next highest wages $28.20 and $28.07 respectively. Manufacturers of men's clothing showed the lowest weekly wage — $23.55—according to the bureau's figures.

Nearly 60,000 employees studied in the survey received an average of $22.26 a week, about $1 a week more than a year ago.

Trade in Alberta

A report covering business conditions in Central and Southern Alberta indicates considerable improvement as crop money is in circulation. General lines have sold in heavier volume but demand for cheaper lines of good still predominates. Hardware lines show substantial increase this fall. Collections are good on current accounts. Automobile dealers have found improved business.

There has been a big demand for used cars during the year, which has had a bad effect on the tire dealers and accessories lines. Lumber and building materials are still moving very nicely. Farm machinery business has been well maintained during the fall months, but did not come up to spring volume.

Tiniest Brightest

Science Develops a New Lamp With Concentrated Beam

Last month fifty executives made a tour of U.S. research laboratories under the auspices of the division of engineering and industrial research of the National Research Council. At Schenectady, N.Y., they listened to Dr. Saul Dushman of the General Electric Company's research laboratories.

"I hold up," said the doctor, "a capillary discharge tube of an entirely new type." This being so much like a penicillin to the assembled executives. When the electrodes were heated by an electric current the mercury was converted into vapor. Electrons shot off from the tungsten core off bits of the mercury atoms. An animal would have screamed with pain. The mercury atom just glowed in an electrical agency called ionization.

This principle is now very old. It is applied in every mercury arc light. It casts its glaucous greenish light (it lacks red, which is what makes it look so weird) in many printer's composing rooms, a photographer's gallery. Dushman was plainly interested in the lamp because of its smallness. The luminous efficiency (if you are an electrical engineer and want to know) is about 40 lumens a watt and 70 watts are required to operate the lamp, which gives a discharge about five lengths of an inch long.

MOST COMPACT LIGHT SOURCE

A tiny lamp like this is just the thing to supply the concentrated beam needed for motion picture machines and lighthouses. Probably no more compact source of light has been invented. But for home or office use—impossible.

By turning the lamp on and off as just the right time it would be possible to do away with the shutter of a motion-picture projector. If you want red rays you can get them by means of a reflector coated with a fluorescent red paint.

A big brother of this lamp—and even this one is a double quartz tube only about an inch long and with internal and external diameters of 3/64 and 1/4 of an inch, respectively—works at a temperature of 4,000 to 5,000 degrees Centigrade and dazzles you with a light of 40,000 candlepower at nine kilowatts. An ordinary mercury lamp would have a length of about three feet and an internal diameter of three inches to yield that much light with the same power. So in a way is the best that the quartz tube has to be water-cooled. The light is much whiter than that of the standard motion-picture type described first.

Both lamps were originally developed by Phillips in Holland and England. But the laboratories at Schenectady are putting on some finishing touches.

HE DEFENDED THE PRESS

(From the New York Times)

Don Carlos Seltz, for twenty-five years business manager of the New York World, was a widely known figure in newspaper and literary activities. Although newspapers before the World War did not escape his criticisms, he was quick to come to their defence during a controversy precipitated in 1922 by the late Senator Porter J. McCumber of North Dakota, joint author of the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Law of 1922.

In a speech in the Senate, Mr. McCumber charged that the defeat of William H. Taft for the presidency in 1912 was the result of the refusal of the senate committee on finance to make a corrupt bargain with representatives of the American Newspaper Publishers Association. Mr. Seltz had been a member of one of the association's committees to which the Senator had made reference.

Replying to the McCumber charges, Mr. Seltz said: "It is my impression that Mr. Taft was defeated by Theodore Roosevelt and not by the newspapers. As a matter of fact, most of the newspapers were for Mr. Taft. This talk of Senator McCumber is merely part of the imbecility and ignorance that has been shown by Senator McCumber and his colleagues in framing the present tariff bill."

The next day Senator McCumber modified his charges, agreeing that Mr. Roosevelt was responsible for Mr. Taft's defeat but contending that Mr. Roosevelt would not have run in 1912 "if the newspapers had kept quiet."

As for newspapers, Mr. Seltz de-

American press has become commercialized, mainly because of the vast wealth that accompanied and followed the World War, bringing many columns of advertising in the newspapers.

THE HORSE

The horse has the smallest stomach in proportion to its size of any of the domestic animals. Therefore, it must have food and drink frequently. It goes without saying that the horse is to be fed the first thing in the morning, but if an unusually hard day's work is ahead for the animal, it is better that he should have an extra feed the night before, and only the average breakfast, for a meal requires time for digestion, and an overfed horse is as inactive as an overfed man. Carry a mackinac—the kind with the upper portion well ventilated, so you can give the horse a feed any time without embarrassing him. A small feed every two hours, with a short rest, is better for the horse than a comparatively full feed in the middle of the day. Stagnant, meagre, and apathetic are brought on by long fasting and overfeeding thereafter. A wisp of wet hay and a cullow or two of water at intervals of a couple of hours will refresh a horse that has been travelling hard and fast. In warm weather, after the animal has been given a drink, it is well to sponge out his nostrils and eyes, as it is very refreshing. Four half pails of water four times a day are better for him than a full pail of water morning and night. If you want the horse to be well and strong, don't hurry him when feeding, or work him the moment he has finished.

GROOMING THE HORSE

Clipping a horse is a comfort to the animal in summer, if you are able to protect him from flies. In the winter, it is cruel and foolish, however much it may add to his appearance. Grooms and stablemen urge that a horse be clipped because it makes it easier for them to keep him clean. In cleaning a horse, he should first be led from his stall, because otherwise the dust will settle in his crib, fouling his feed. If a horse is washed, he is immediately liable to take cold. The curry-comb must always be used gently, as it otherwise becomes an instrument of torture, but when it comes to the matter of brushing and rubbing, the more thoroughly it is done the handsomer the animal's coat will appear, and the more thoroughly will he be ready for a day's work, because brushing softens his skin, frees the horse from dirt and other impurities, opens them and stimulates them into action. The hair should never be cut from a horse's ears, nor from his pasterns, because the hair in the ears keeps them warm and prevents deafness, and the hair about the pasterns keeps the fetlocks dry and prevents sore heels. It may make work easier for the men in the stable, but it won't add to the comfort or usefulness of the horse. Washing, currying, and grooming the horse had best be the work of the early morning. On returning from a day's work, if the horse is hot, he should be allowed to cool off gradually before being placed in his stall, so as to avoid taking a chill. Then his legs should be well rubbed down by hand. This soothes the sores and rests the animal, and enables the man in charge of him to detect and remove those, burns or splinters. Then the horse's hoofs should be carefully examined, and if there is a stone wedge between the hoof and the shoe, it must be removed. Otherwise the animal will probably be lame by morning. It is best to have the shoe of a city horse changed every three weeks, because the hoof is constantly growing, and any fault in shoe or foot requires instant correction.

BLANKETS AND FLY NETS

In cold weather, be sure that your horses are blanketed the moment they come to a stand. The faster they have gone, and the harder they have worked, the more important does the blanket become, because the horse becomes thoroughly heated and when perspiring, is more likely to catch a cold or a chill than if worked only moderately. Your blanket should be of ample size, covering the animal thoroughly from neck to tail, and can be buckled snugly under the belly. Before working the horse again, roll up the blanket, as it will otherwise only increase his perspiration, and at the same time absorb the moisture. A wet blanket on a horse in cold weather makes sickness a certainty. In the summer it will add greatly to the horse's comfort to provide fly nets. If you can't do this, a green hough fastened to the harness will afford some protection. Better still, there are three preparations which flies don't like but that won't hurt the horse. Rub one of the three on the places where flies are most annoying: concentrated oil of laurel sweetwood tree, or a mixture made of one pound of ammonia, half a pint of vinegar, and a pint of water. Aside from the constant annoyance of the animal, flies are a danger to the driver or passenger, because they render the horses nervous, irritable, and likely to bolt and run away.

New Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping Losing Their "Grip" on Things

Many people "round 40 think they're growing old." They feel tired a lot. "I've had headaches, dizziness, stomach upsets," they say. Well, scientific say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity. When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. That's all.

Try this. Soon you'll feel like another person. Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

And Still the Wheat Moves

(The Montreal Star)
For about three weeks now, sales of Canadian wheat for export have proceeded at a rate which can best be compared with the heavy movement that took place during the Great War. Ever since the Argentine set a high minimum price on December 12, it has been apparent that Canada is in possession of the export field. This is of immense national significance.

A fortnight ago we pointed to what the movement would mean to our ports. Available freight at Saint John, for example, is reported to be pretty well booked. And let it be said at once that Montreal should not "break" that they may be "broke." Incidentally, there are reports of the odd couple of "tramps" already chartered to carry grain out of Montreal when the river opens in the spring. Nothing to get too excited about yet, but generally speaking that things may well get back to a pre-war basis. This is the time of year when chartering ships and looking after export begins to get under way. After so long a winter of depression, however, many will cheer a single swallow as if it were the full summer.

And Canada is in fine position to move wheat this winter. There are some 30,000,000 bushels of wheat in St. Lawrence and Maritime ports which could well move out during the winter through Saint John. There are about another 40,000,000 bushels in Eastern elevators and lake ports, from which the freight rates to Saint John are equivalent to those from Buffalo to New York. The wheat, then, is in "an export position," though some of it, no doubt, will be stored for domestic milling in Eastern Canada. There are, too, from 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels available for shipment through British Columbia ports, in addition to a fair supply at American Lake ports, some of which we might hope that export will proceed mercifully. "When the wheat moves" at fair prices is almost another term for Canadian prosperity.

ARE YOU NERVOUS, IRRITABLE, TIRED?

Do your friends secretly pity you, because you simply haven't the energy to do the things they do? Are you nervous, irritable, a victim of depression? Then the answer you seek is PHOSPHORINE. The great British tonic, it concentrates energy. You take only a few tiny, economical drops each day... but the effect is astonishing. Almost from the first dose life looks brighter. You gain new energy. You sleep soundly. You wake thoroughly refreshed. Indigestion, loss of appetite, pains and stiffness, and other weaknesses... and stay gone. Start taking PHOSPHORINE now. Thousands who once suffered from general debility, rheumatic aches and pains, poor appetite and loss of pep and go, count the day they first took PHOSPHORINE as the best day in their lives. PHOSPHORINE is a specially effective aid to all sorts of debility, nervousness, general debility, rheumatic aches and pains, indigestion, loss of appetite, nervousness, and loss of pep and go. Get PHOSPHORINE from your druggist now—in liquid or tablet form—the following reduced prices—3 dozen, $6.00, $10.00, $15.00. The $15.00 size is nearly four times the 30c size, and the $15.00 size is twice the $10.00 size.

Are you prepared for the next depression which the forecasters say will be along in the 'forties?

Did you ever select a contribution for a good cause from a professional money-raiser?

DONE TO A TUNE
When I was just a fellow boy I got my fingers burned and that was quite enough. But since the day I nearly swore to keep away from configurations, I have found my resolution wasn't sound. In view of the fact, however, that I'd like some fire insurance.

The conductor walked through the bus collecting fares and stopped before a passenger whose arms were extended in front of him. "Rider—You'll find a dime in my coat pocket?"

Conductor (amused)—Anything the matter with your arms?
Rider—Oh, no. The width between my hands is the size of a pane of glass I am going to buy.

Mr. Neuritic—Yes, sir, I started in life a barbed wire boy.
Mr. Obdurate—I, too, was born with a set screw.

Landlady—Well, of course, this is just a rooming house, not a sight-seeing bus.

Daughter—Mother, I wish you would stop looking Father around so much.
Mother—What's the matter now?
Daughter—Well, every time I get some young man interested in me he grows serious and asks me if I talk after you.

Nothing turns out right unless somebody makes it his job to see that it does.

A father was giving some advice to his son. At the end of the lecture he said:
Father—Now, son, you understand perfectly what I mean?
Son—Yes, it boils down to this: If I do well, it is because of my illustrious forebears; if I fail it is my fault.

"Human beings must always be capable of adapting themselves to the world as they find it. But adaptation does not involve the fundamental. Young people of today can build the good life on the same principles as the old-timers used as their models. Courage is needed—it always was. With courage there must go intelligence, loyalty, and fair play."

Seasonal Drop In Employment

Situation Last Month More Favorable Than in Past Few Years

Employment in Canada showed a drop between November 1 and December 1 of 25,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported last week. The total number of employees registered by 9,462 firms fell from 1,913,721 to 1,888,721.

The bureau described the decrease as a "seasonal contraction," and said it was the first general decline since last April.

It added: "The situation continued decidedly more favorable than in any month of 1934, 1933 or 1932," and was better than that of the Autumn and Winter of 1931."

Royal Bank of Canada 67th Annual Meeting

Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, Sees Upward Trend of Business Definitely Established.
Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reports $50,000,000 Increase in Deposits For Second Year in Succession.

Bank optimism for the immediate future is to be found in the accomplishments of the past two years, stated Mr. Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, in the course of his address at the 67th Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada. "In every province of the Empire," said Mr. Wilson, "the employment and credit conditions have improved, and the purchasing power. To the farmers of the west, there is an almost immeasurable difference between a price of 40c and 50c for wheat and there is every prospect that by the end of the crop year, the carryover will be materially reduced. In the cities, the burdens and distress due to unemployment have been reduced by an expansion in all lines of manufacturing. In fact, in recent months the volume of manufacturing has exceeded that in the normal base year 1926."

Marked expansion in the automobile and allied industries, the chemical industry, in the demand for textiles and books, were also noted by Mr. Wilson, who remarked that the continued activity in the mining industry during the depression and its expansion in 1934-1935 have been outstanding elements in Canadian recovery.

"The payrolls of this industry," said Mr. Wilson, "provided generous wages at a time when many of those employed in other industries were out of work. Without the expenditures of the mining industry for supplies, machinery and other items, the depression in Canada would have been much more severe. In spite of low prices and the low level of demand for building materials, the total volume of mineral production in 1935 again amounted to more than $50,000,000. The volume of gold production attained a new high record of $115,000,000. I am of the opinion that the great period in Canadian mineral production is in the future."

Unemployment
"While unemployment has shown some improvement during the past year, unemployment is still a major problem. Relief expenditures constitute a threatening drain upon the resources of many local communities. While recognizing fully our social obligations, I fear that these expenditures have not always been made with due regard to the public interest. The problem of unemployment is a serious one, and the Government is aware of the need for a solution."

Security of Contracts
Referring to the registration last year by one of the Provinces of important long-term power contracts, Mr. Wilson said: "The alleged ground was that off legal-ly, but it is noteworthy that the Government has not taken any action regarding all ordinary contracts of British justice, the agricultural investors have been denied access to the courts to prove their claims. Moral considerations aside—and these are not to be lightly disregarded—the policy of repudiating contracts that may have become burdensome because of changed conditions strikes at the very root of our social and economic life. Stated in its broadest terms, moreover, repudiation does not pay. In the long run we have made heavy sacrifices to build up and maintain our credit abroad. Unless some means can be found to remove the stain, this incident will be a permanent blot upon the fair name of our country."

Provincial Finances
"The financial position of some of our provinces has been the subject of frequent discussions during recent months. Economic conditions in Western Canada, and abnormally heavy expenditures for relief resulting therefrom, have necessitated large advances from the Dominion Government. It was inevitable that sooner or later the question of control by the Federal Government over the finances of these provinces should be brought up, particularly in view of suggestions put forward that the Federal Government, by lending its credit, should assist in a general refunding of provincial debts so as to reduce the interest charges and thereby assist in balancing the budgets of these provinces. Such assistance by the Federal Government would only be justified if there were set up suitable safeguards against excessive borrowings by provinces in the future, a matter that would seem to involve an amendment to our constitution. With due safeguards, however, I believe that some such plan would merit and receive the support of public opinion in Canada."

Foreign Trade
"Seven of our foreign trade partners in the past three years have been the British Empire and the United States. The present upturn in business activity is associated with a rising demand for Canadian goods in Empire markets and in the markets of the United States. In the twelve months ending in November 1935 Canadian exports to the Empire exceeded those of the same months of the previous two years by $35 million and $105 million respectively. Exports to the United States showed corresponding gains at $44 million and $100 million. Figures show that as yet Canada is not benefiting by any gains in general world buying power, but rather from the recovery which is under way in Great Britain and the United States. It would seem that Canada is indeed fortunate to have secured favorable trade agreements with her two best customers. While the agreement with the United States has been in effect but a few days, in view of the gain of $100 million over the past two years, optimism as to further gains in exports to the United States during 1936 is justified."

Summary
"I would not feel justified in closing my remarks without emphasizing that many serious problems still confront us. But neither can I close on a pessimistic note. The Canadian people have faced—and I sincerely believe have conquered—the depression. At this stage we must not listen to the faint-hearted who have become frightened or discouraged by the trials of recent years. Those who now urge defeat, repudiation or compromise as a solution to our financial problems are false prophets who have not correctly read the signs of the times. The Canadian people are made of sterner stuff."

"The upward trend in business would now seem to be definitely established. In fact, I believe, we may look forward to the coming year with a greater optimism than has been possible at any time in the past two years."

General Manager's Address
Mr. S. G. Dobson, general manager, referred to the financial statement, as follows:
"The Thirty-Sixth Annual Report and Balance Sheet reflect continuance of the upturn of business which began in 1933, and which has progressed almost without interruption since that time. Totals under practically all headings are again higher, indicating the steady and continuous growth of the bank."

"A year ago we reported an increase of $10,000,000 in deposits. This year we are able to report a further increase of over $10,000,000, or a total of over $100,000,000 in two years—an impressive amount. Deposits in Canada again increased in all provinces, savings deposits being up over $11,000,000."

"Because of the continued lack of demand for commercial loans, the main outlets for investment of the additional deposits has been the purchase of Government and Municipal securities. As a consequence, assets under these headings have increased by $23,000,000 to $194,000,000."

Assets Up $42,000,000
"Total assets during the year increased $42,000,000, and are now $609,913,795, the highest point reached since 1931. Public assets stand at $423,677,481, or 69.7% of total liabilities to the public."

"Call Loans in Canada increased $1,000,000, while Call Loans outside of Canada decreased $10,000,000."

"Current Loans in Canada have increased by $300,000 and similar advances abroad by $9,575,500. While there has been a considerable improvement in business conditions, so far recovery has not been appreciably the demand for bank accommodation."

"Our senior Executive organization was recently enlarged by the appointment of three Assistant General Managers, namely, Burnham L. P. Mitchell, James Muir and Harold C. Neale. Mr. Mitchell will continue to supervise Ontario business with headquarters in Toronto and Mr. Muir and Mr. Neale will, as heretofore, be attached to "Head Office. All three are highly trained bankers of wide experience, who have spent their business lifetime in the service of the bank."

"At the last annual meeting, I ventured the opinion that we had every justification for looking forward to improved conditions during 1936. This expectation has been realized perhaps to an even greater extent than we had hoped for at that time. The outlook is still favorable and, as I see it, there is no reason why we should not enter 1936 with a feeling of optimism."

Old Minto: The Pioneers Who Came And Went (By Prof. S. D. McCready)

"Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of 10 articles which were published recently in the Harvest Review. While written especially for the "Review" and addressed to residents of Minto Township particularly, we believe they will be found interesting to many of the readers of this paper because the problems of the farm folk of Minto Township are the same problems that confront rural people throughout the Province."

In April last the Mail and Empire printed a series of seven short articles written by me dealing with reforms in rural education. The articles were based on a considerable measure of observation made in the summer of 1934 during a visit to Denmark, Sweden and Scotland. I tried to point out some lessons we in Ontario might learn from these progressive countries in modernizing our system of education so that the needs of country life might be better served than they are now.

At that time Mr. Gardiner, editor of the Review, expressed a wish for a series of similar articles for his paper, and I agreed to prepare such sometime when I could find my way again to the north. This is the first of the articles. I propose to discuss in ten short contributions some problems concerning the well-being of Minto Township which I am sure are in the minds of every citizen of the district. I do not say "of everyone" will agree with my proposals. Probably there will be more disagreement than agreement. And likely many will say that my suggestions are impossible of accomplishment. But, whatever the results, there can be no doubt of the value of open discussion. No one is all-wise. We all may learn.

And, moreover, whatever may be thought of my suggestions, I am sure everyone will agree we are in a unique position. Canada and the world at large are at the parting of the ways. An old era is ending. A new era is being born. What about Minto Township in this new birth? In this year of grace 1936 it is only eighty years since it was laid out, without a settler. What will it be in the year 2000—just sixty-five years away? The same question may well be asked of the 576 other townships in Ontario. What is going to happen to the country?

I undertake this task with not a little hesitation. For I realize that home-grown prophets would be wiser often to remain silent. The folk among whom one is brought up are not disinterested, as a rule, in accepting very seriously the advice or criticism of one of themselves. Truly, as it was said of old, "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country."

But in spite of my fear-charged hesitations, I make bold to write. For I have a great love for Minto Township. Minto is my birth place. There never has been and never can be, for me, any place quite so dear. Best of the things dearest in life are associated with Minto and the country about it: the old home, the old friends, the old schools, old teachers and old schoolmates; the old playing fields and swimming holes; the streams and woods and berry patches; the country roads and the friendly country acquaintances; the old cemetery and the tender memories associated with its graves. And besides all these, my wife, too, is of Minto and Minto is a daughter of another pioneer. Indeed, much of my interest in Minto has come from listening to my Father and Mr. Livingston talk of the pioneer days. I think they knew every farm and settler in the township. So, willy-nilly, I am a part of Minto. I belong to it and always will belong to it. My house will probably become part of its soil.

As many readers of the Review will know, my Father was one of the pioneers of Minto. He came to Minto from Toronto in 1856—76 years ago—and was the district's first general store keeper. At that time there were fewer than a dozen houses in Minto. The first lots and first house built by Archibald Harrison. Our home was not far from it. My earliest memories are of a country just half emerging from the wild bush. I came into the world when Minto was in the making. And I have lived long enough to see it in 1936 more or less as an old-settled, more or less completed agricultural community.

IMMIGRANTS AND EMIGRANTS
A glance back at the development of Minto Township reveals it as an ever changing and pioneering settlement. The first comers in the 30's and 40's were an overflow from the more crowded districts east and south. They did not come from the old country direct. The Harrisons came from York County. The Jacksons and Wrights came from Carleton Place in Ontario County. The Jewells came from the Kingston district. The Macpeths came from Dumfries in Waterloo County. The Williams came from Fonthill Township.

Then before very many years elapsed there were similar immigrations from Minto. It, in turn, became too crowded. Some moved forward into Bruce Peninsula. Other families spread into Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Kansas and Nebraska received their quota of Mintonians. Then the Indians. Then Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. I have little doubt that more people emigrated from Minto than there are on its farms today.

And now all that outward flow has ceased. There are no more large areas of free lands to be possessed. Mintonians will have to stay at home now I suppose and make the most of Minto Township by farming it more intensively. The cities are not calling for their surplus population, either, as they were a few years ago. They are overcrowded. They have become over industrialized and the heavy machines are displacing more and more of the city workers. The cities would welcome a hankering of the needy unemployed into the country.

The professions are over crowded too. There is no longer any room for the youth of Minto by way of the Harriston High School into teaching, medicine, law, engineering and the military that there was formerly and up to ten years ago. The universities have reached a plateau of over production just as the factories have. So have the commercial schools.

Undoubtedly, Minto Township faces a new era, what it is going to do about it? Next week, I shall sketch a view of Minto as it is today.

HOCKEY SCHEDULE RE-ARRANGED

Out of respect for the memory of His Majesty King George the Fifth, all O.H.A. games scheduled for Tuesday, January 21st were cancelled. All six teams in Group Seven were to have played and these contests will have to be arranged for at a later date.

The Peach Kings were to have played Thorold at the local arena. This game will in all probability be played here on February 7th which is the date set for the wind up of regular group games. Peach Kings were scheduled to go to Dunnville on Feb. 7th and this game has been advanced and will be held Friday of this week, while Hagersville and Thorold will meet at the Grimsby arena on the same night.

As the funeral of the late King will be held on Tuesday, January 28th, the Chaledonia Grimsby game, booked for that night at the arena, will be cancelled and will likely be staged on Wednesday the 29th. Definite announcements in this connection will be made within the next few days.

PEACH KINGS LOSE AT HAGERSVILLE

At Hagersville last Thursday night the Peach Kings took their second loss of the season when they were defeated 5-4 in ten minutes overtime. The Grimsby team were well on the way to a victory, leading Hagersville 4-3 with seconds to go when a power play clicked and the home team tied the score.

Hagersville supplied the necessary punch in the overtime and scored the winning tally half way through the extra session.

Bobby Robertson had to leave the game in the third period when he pulled a tendon in his leg, and was replaced in the Grimsby nets by "Bub" House who gave a good account of himself and could not be blamed for either of the goals scored against him.

THE FOLLY OF FRET
The man who has lost his ship can't help it, and the ship that has not yet come in can't be hurried along. Worry won't help either what you can't help or what you can.

Fretting over things that are past or those to come doesn't make today pleasant or tomorrow welcome. Forget your troubles in your duties, hide your fears in your hopes. Work to win.

Worry annoys and hurry hampers. The laugh is better than the tear, and the slow gait goes the fastest.

SELF CONTROL

Goodness is not a negative, but an intensely positive thing. It is energetic, active, strong. The very word implies the effort of the most constant and strenuous kind. The powers of our mind and body were not given us that we might simply keep them from mischief and hold them in check as that they should not harm ourselves or others. They were given us for action. The tongue to speak, the eye to look, the hand to work, the heart to love, the mind to think, the will to choose.

PART I

"Ben, isn't that Noah Phelps driving in now? I hope my wife is with them," said Rev. Wakefield, a little anxiously.

"No one could mistake Noah Phelps a mile away. That's him all right," agreed Ben Morton.

"They are late. You better tell them to come over here with their baskets, John. There's plenty of water heated for all," said Mrs. Morton.

He was a tall, tight-lipped man, strong and vigorous, this Noah Phelps about thirty years of age. Accepting the invitation gladly, for they had driven from Merrickton, he stopped his horses at their tent, took in the whole scene at a glance, then helped his proficient wife, and their five children over the wall and onto the grass. There was no need to assist Mrs. Wakefield who had come with them; she was already beside her husband. Grandfather Morton who married the young couple but a few weeks before, and just returned from his hurried trip back over the mountain to the little black farm where he had performed the last sad rites for his early co-worker, Mr. Ferguson, found it cheering to see the happy faces of the two he had so lately joined together in wedded bliss.

When Noah Phelps saw Ben Morton, their unfortunate conversation of a year ago was distinctly recalled to his memory, and he made haste to speak to him. "How are you, brother Morton? I think I have not seen you since I found the Lord, but whereas once I was blind now I see." The two men looked strong hands in friendly grip.

"No, but I heard of it," Ben said, "and to look into your face is all one needs to know you have had a change of heart. Welcome to our midst."

Mrs. Phelps cheerfully guided her flock to the loaded table of good things justly spread as Mrs. Morton summoned her.

"First, Janet, will you put more wood under the kettle for the dish water. We'll have to hurry now." Already in the Circle families had finished their simple meals and were gathered in little groups singing hymns and praying for the Green Spirit to descend.

Janet retraced her steps to the rear of the hut deserted now and quiet to replenish the low fire, and lifting her head, unexpectedly looked straight into the strange green eyes of an animal perched on the top of the brush-stocked directly in front of her. Started at its close proximity and with pounding heart, she backed away hurriedly as it noiselessly disappeared.

George, a little lagged in getting to the table, was about to take his seat, when coming up behind him and a little ashamed of herself, Janet whispered so no one would notice. "Your friend's back there—a wild cat."

"Oh?" he interrogated, "well, it won't hurt you."

"I know, but you came back with me. It was so close."

He looked at her a moment, then seeing his opportunity to retaliate, he grinned and said "I don't think I will scared at?—and of a wild cat—how you never seemed to mind them at home?"

"I know but it is so open here, and strange. Come on," she coaxed.

"You're really scared?" he said, starting back with her and giving her thick tawny hand a little jerk that reached below her waist. "It's gone long ago as frightened as you. Perhaps its den was destroyed with this tearing up going on."

"We are waiting for you, Janet—in George there?" called Mrs. Morton.

"Yes mother, we're coming."

They both quickly threw more sticks on to the fire and ran back taking their places in the waiting silence. Rev. Wakefield was asked to say Grace.

More newcomers coming in at the entrance to the Circle received hearty greetings from friends they had not met for years, while in the midst of the bustle of preparation, serving, eating, and stowing away food, many who had come earlier began stepping over the logs that supported the long heavy planks to find their places for the meeting.

It was not long before a rumbling blast on a long tin horn from Rev. John Wakefield echoed through the forest glades.

"Shall we all go together?" called Mrs. O'Neil from the tent first.

"We're about ready."

"Come right over and we'll start. Burkholders have gone. We'll have to leave the dishes, Janet, until after the service. Just pile them up while I get Annabel ready. We want to get good souls. Pa has gone to be near the speakers," answered Mrs. Morton hurrying here and there.

"Henry's there too?" put in Mrs. O'Neil coming up with Carrie and Nathan.

"You young people all go together. Start off, and we'll come. I'll take Annabel." The little girl had been almost speechless all the morning playing close beside her mother, her eyes large and round with interest at her new surroundings and the many strange people.

The many friends of Mrs. W. B. Smith will be glad to learn she is able to be out again after her illness since Christmas.

DYMENT—GRANT

A very pretty but quiet wedding of interest to a wide circle of friends was solemnized at 3 p. m. on Wednesday afternoon when Miss Margaret, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grant, was united in marriage to Clark Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Dymont, all of Smithville; Rev. Mr. J. L. Small officiating. The bride looked very charming in a gown of ivory satin and carried a bouquet of premier roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Bernice Slater, wearing a blue crepe gown, and carried a bouquet of tallman roses. The groom's gift to the bride was a cameo bracelet, and to the best man a tie pin and clip. After the ceremony, a dainty luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents. Later in the evening the bride and groom left amidst showers of good wishes and confetti for Florida. The bride travelled in a brown coat with squirrel trimmings, brown dress and accessories to match. On their return in the spring Mr. and Mrs. Dymont will reside in Smithville.

Successful Year Is Enjoyed By St. Andrew's Anglican Church

The treasurer's report presented at the annual vestry meeting of St. Andrew's Anglican church, held Monday evening, indicated that all branches of the church had enjoyed a successful and encouraging year.

The following officers were appointed: People's warden, M. B. Nelson; rector's warden, Hartland Dickson; auditors, N. R. MacFarlane and D. P. Egar; stewards, C. E. Mahoy, W. Johnson; finance committee, W. H. Parsons, W. R. Boehm, Hugh Whyte, A. J. Chivers, William Lothian, A. R. Land; lay delegates, G. G. Bourne, George Marr, William Lothian.

Owing to the death of the King, St. Andrew's Men's Service club withdrew their card party and lunch, which was to have followed the vestry meeting.

Apple Growers Are Protected

Apple growers throughout the district are jubilant over the federal government's decision to increase the specific duty on apples by one-fifth of a cent. The increase has given the fruitmen better protection than ever.

According to information from Robert Colvin, collector of customs, the Dominion government by order-in-council, dated January 1, 1936, cancelled the 5 per cent. duty ad valorem—the straight duty according to value—but increased the specific duty from three-fifths of a cent a pound to four-fifths of a cent. This increase more than offsets the 5 per cent. reduction.

celebrated last December 7th. At an early age he showed an aptitude for business and when still in his young twenties set up in the baking business for himself, his shop being on the property now occupied by Dr. Vance R. Farrell on Depot street, which he ran for some time and then expanded by the purchase of the other bake shop in the village, the one now operated by A. Jarvis. After building these businesses up into successful going concerns he disposed of them and entered the employ of the late J. W. VanDyke who was then at the zenith of his career. He remained with Mr. VanDyke for several years.

By this time he had a large and growing family and wisely decided that the proper place for their development into healthy manhood, and womanhood was on a farm and accordingly purchased the large fruit and grain farm of the late W. F. Whitaker at the lake on Falcon street, which he operated successfully for some years and then disposed of it.

His next business venture was at Vineland where he conducted a large general store which he disposed of and returned to Grimsby to enter into partnership with ex-Mayor A. E. Hewson in the manufacturing of baskets and other fruit containers. Their first small factory was erected on the property where the present large plant of H. H. Farrell & Sons now stands. This partnership terminated about fifteen years ago with Mr. Farrell taking his sons into the business and Mr. Hewson starting up his present concern.

For over half a century the name of "Hanky" Farrell as he was well known by all in this district, has been a household word wherever sport and sporting events was the topic. For many years he was one of the best 50 and 100 yards sprinters in the Niagara Peninsula as well as being considered one of the best baseball players of his day. After retiring from active participation in sport he took a keen interest in the development of his sons along all lines of sporting endeavor, particularly hockey, for wherever hockey is played in Canada the "Famous Farrell Family" of brothers is known. The boys were also excellent basketball and football players, and there never was a game played that "Hanky" was not an interested spectator. He was a prominent member of the Grimsby Championship Hook and Ladder running team, champions of Western New York and Ontario, during the late 80's and early 90's and he was one of the last few remaining members of that organization.

season, the most fruit handled in the history of the Company in one season.

The past year was most successful, and a substantial dividend was paid to growers.

A. W. Almas Is New Councillor--Elected By Acclamation

At the nomination meeting of the electors of the town held on Monday evening from 7.30 to 8.30 o'clock Arthur W. Almas was the only nominee for the vacancy on the Grimsby town council caused by the resignation of A. E. Palmer.

Mr. Almas who was nominated by A. B. Bourne and P. E. Wilkins, has had previous experience as a member of the council and was the low man in the recent municipal election. He was declared elected by acclamation by town clerk, G. G. Bourne who presided, being the only candidate nominated.

Councillor Almas will serve on the police, industrial, cemetery and property committees.

Members of Lodge Over Fifty Years

An unusual event took place at the last regular meeting of Westworth lodge, A. F. & A. M., 168, when the presentation was made of three veteran medals, given by grand lodge to three brothers who for over 50 years had been members of the lodge. M. W. Bro. C. E. Kelly made presentation to W. E. Corman, who for 61 years has been an active member. James Theobald, who for 53 years had been a member, was another recipient. The third medal was for the late L. L. Hager, Grimsby, who died in September, having been a member for 60 years. Mr. Corman is 86 years old.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

preached by the Rev. I. B. Kaine owing to the illness of Rev. Wilson of Hamilton who was to have taken the evening service. Mr. Kaine took for his text "The Great Confession" and built around the confession of Peter a story that held the rapid attention of his hearers. "Thou Art the Christ the Son of the Living God," was Peter's confession.

Mrs. C. Deacon of Hamilton, sang two very delightful solos at the morning service and Mr. Albert Jarvis sang at the evening service. The choir was also heard in two anthems.
